20. The purpose of holistic yoga is to unite the mind, body, and spirit to create deep harmony. Unlike simple exercise, it treats the whole person to build health, calm the mind, and reduce stress. It helps you live a balanced, peaceful life. Holistic yoga achieves this through three main parts:Poses (Asanas): Physical stretches that build strength and flexibility.Breathwork (Pranayama): Deep breathing that calms the body and boosts energy.Meditation (Dhyana): Quiet focus that clears the mind and promotes emotional peace.

21. Samkhya (Sāṅkhya) is one of the oldest orthodox schools of Hindu philosophy, traditionally founded by the sage Kapila. It is a system of metaphysical dualism that explains the universe through an enumerative method, classifying reality into 25 fundamental principles (tattvas).Samkhya divides all of reality into two independent, eternal, and ultimate realities:Purusha (Consciousness): The pure, unchanging, eternal witness or spirit. It is devoid of qualities, does not act, and is not a material object. In Samkhya, there are an infinite number of individual Purushas.Prakriti (Nature/Matter): The primal, unconscious, yet active and creative energy from which the entire physical and psychological universe evolves.
