Part B: Short Answers

11. How does planning contribute to organizational efficiency?

Planning sets clear goals and identifies the best course of action to achieve them, reducing resource waste and improving productivity.

12. Define coordination in an organizational context.

Coordination is the process of aligning activities and efforts of different departments and individuals to achieve organizational goals.

13. Define Path-Goal Theory in leadership.

Path-Goal Theory suggests that a leader's role is to clear the path for subordinates to reach their goals by providing support, direction, and removing obstacles.

14. What are the key factors to consider when negotiating a sponsorship deal for a sports celebrity?

Audience reach, brand alignment, public image, contract terms, and legal obligations are key factors.

15. What is planning in the context of management?

Planning is the process of setting objectives and determining the best course of action to achieve them within an organization.

Q16: How would you apply the concept of spirit of unity, teamwork in a major sports event?

The spirit of unity and teamwork is essential in organizing a major sports event. All departments—such as logistics, marketing, and technical teams—must work cohesively toward common goals. Unity ensures smooth communication, coordinated planning, and effective execution, while teamwork helps in resolving challenges and delivering a successful event.

Q17: Define sports leadership in simple terms.

Sports leadership is the ability to guide, motivate, and influence athletes or a team to achieve their best performance and goals through strategic direction and support.

Q18: Why is leadership important in an organization?

Leadership provides direction, motivates employees, fosters teamwork, and ensures efficient use of resources. It helps align the organization's objectives with individual goals, driving success and innovation.

Q19: You are appointed as team captain. How would you bring communication among the players and management?

I would establish regular team meetings, use digital communication tools, maintain an open-door policy, and encourage feedback. I'd act as a liaison between players and management to ensure clear and effective communication.

Q20: Why is sports event management important? Compare with other management fields.

Sports event management ensures planning, organizing, and delivering successful events, including logistics, safety, and audience experience. Unlike other management fields, it involves real-time coordination, emotional engagement, and managing unpredictable scenarios such as weather or injuries.

Q21: Why is sponsorship important in sports?

Sponsorship provides financial support, enhances brand visibility, and increases event credibility. It also helps in promoting sports by funding athletes, equipment, and facilities.

Q22: Compare and contrast centralised and decentralised task/coordination methods.

Centralised coordination involves decision-making by top management; it's consistent but less flexible.

Decentralised coordination allows decisions at multiple levels; it is adaptive and responsive but may lack uniformity.

Section C (Short essay)

Q23: How does controlling help in improving organization efficiency? Include one event as an example.

Controlling ensures that organizational activities align with planned objectives by monitoring performance and implementing corrective actions.
Example: In a marathon event, controlling the logistics (water stations, first aid, route monitoring) ensures smooth execution and safety, enhancing overall efficiency.

Q24: How does setting performance standards help in the controlling process?

Setting standards provides benchmarks for evaluating performance. It helps identify deviations early and allows corrective measures to stay on track toward goals.

Q25: What are the challenges in hosting a major sport event?

Challenges include funding, infrastructure, logistics, crowd control, security, weather issues, and coordination among multiple stakeholders.

Q26: What is leadership, and why is it important in an organization?

Leadership is the process of influencing others to achieve goals. It's important because it inspires innovation, builds team morale, ensures efficient decision-making, and steers the organization toward success.

Q27: Describe the role of the International Cricket Council (ICC) and FIFA in governing their respective global body of work.

ICC governs international cricket, sets rules, organizes events (like the World Cup), and promotes global cricket development.

FIFA regulates global football, oversees major tournaments (e.g., World Cup), sets rules, and develops football infrastructure worldwide.

Q28: Explain the five functions of management in detail.

Answer:

1. Planning – Defining goals and outlining strategies to achieve them.

2. Organizing – Allocating resources and assigning tasks.

3. Staffing – Recruiting and training the workforce.

4. Directing – Leading, motivating, and communicating with employees.

5. Controlling – Monitoring performance and making necessary adjustments.
