QP CODE: 2590057

MGU-UGP (HONOURS) Regular EXAMINATION October 2025

Third SEMESTER

(DSC) - MG3DSCJMC200, MG3DSCPJM201

ADVERTISING: THEORY AND PRACTICE

(2024 ADMISSION ONWARDS)

Duration : 2 HOURS Maximum Marks: 70

Remember(K), Understand(U), Apply(A), Analyse(An), Evaluate(E), Create(C), Skill(S), Interest(I) and Appreciation (Ap)

Part A- Multiple Choice Questions

Answer all questions Each question carries 1mark [1x10 = 10]

1. a. At cinema halls

2. b. Public attention

3. c. Corporate advertising

4. b.B. Dattaram & com

5. c. Conviction

6. d. David Ogilvy

7. a, Copy Writer

8. a. Brand Extension

9. a. Brand Dilution

10. b. placing promotional displays near the entrance

Part B : Short Answer Type Questions (100 Words)

Answer any 10 questions Each question carries 3 marks [3x10 = 30]

11. Emotional appeal targets the audience's feelings, using stories, music, and visuals to evoke emotions like happiness, nostalgia, or fear, creating a personal connection with the brand. By contrast, rational appeal focuses on logic, facts, and product features to persuade consumers with practical benefits and evidence of value.

12. Oversees the planning, execution, and delivery of advertising campaigns to meet client objectives and expectations. Builds and maintains strong client relationships to foster trust, satisfaction, and long-term partnerships. Client Liaison to understand client needs.

13. Advertising can act as a barrier to market entry by creating strong brand loyalty for established firms, making it harder for new entrants to gain traction. Conversely, it can also be a tool for new firms to enter the market by creating awareness and demand for their unique offerings. advertising fuels competition by shaping consumer perceptions, influencing market entry, and affecting pricing strategies within industries

14. Copywriting is a visual art because it involves creatively designing words that complement visual elements to effectively communicate a message, evoke emotions, and persuade the audience. It requires a keen sense of aesthetics, layout, and imagery to craft compelling visuals with impactful text, making it a blend of artistic expression and strategic communication

15. Write compelling, clear, and persuasive copy for ads to attract and engage the target audience. Work closely with creative teams, including designers and marketers, to ensure copy complements visuals and campaign objectives. Proofread, edit, and optimize copy for clarity and assess its impact

16. Concept is the core idea or main message behind the ad; it defines what the ad is about and the key message to be communicated. Treatment is the way the concept is executed or presented creatively, including style, tone, visuals, and storytelling approach to bring the concept to life.

17. Mascots in advertising are relevant because they create a memorable and relatable brand identity, foster emotional connections with consumers, and enhance brand recall. They serve as brand ambassadors, humanizing the brand and making it more engaging across marketing channels.

18. Umbrella branding is a marketing strategy where a single brand name is used to market multiple related products or product lines, leveraging the parent brand's reputation and trust to gain market acceptance quickly. This strategy helps reduce marketing costs and build strong brand recognition since new products benefit from the existing brand equity

19. Brand positioning is the process of establishing a unique identity and place for a brand in the minds of the target customers. It differentiates the brand from competitors by defining what makes it distinct and valuable. Effective brand positioning helps create strong brand awareness, builds customer loyalty, and communicates the brand’s unique value proposition clearly

20. Identifying and segmenting the specific group of consumers to whom the ads are directed for maximum relevance and engagement.The visual and textual content of the advertisement designed to attract, inform, and persuade the target audience. The webpage where users arrive after clicking on an ad, optimized for user experience and conversions, ensuring the ad’s call-to-action is fulfilled effectively,

21. Emotional appeal affects the audience by creating strong feelings that make advertisements more memorable and persuasive. It builds emotional connections with the brand, influencing consumer decisions often faster and more powerfully than rational arguments. This connection can enhance brand loyalty, increase engagement, and drive quicker purchasing actions by tapping into core human emotions

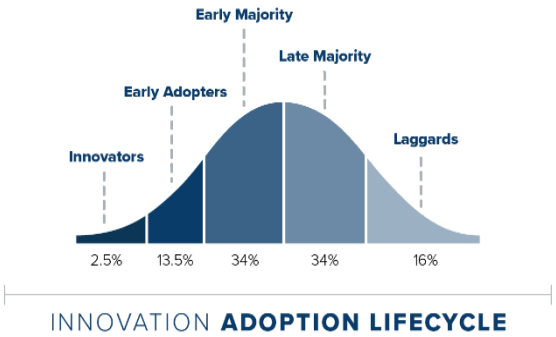

22. Prime time slots command premium prices due to large viewership, making advertising expensive for many businesses. With diverse viewing habits and streaming options, capturing a unified large audience is harder, reducing effectiveness. Once prime time ad spots are purchased, changes to creative or strategy are difficult to implement quickly.

Part C: Essay Type Questions (350 Words)

Answer any 2 questions Each question carries 15 marks [15x2 = 30]

23. Advertising can create false hope and expectation by exaggerating product benefits or making misleading claims, which can lead to consumer disappointment, loss of trust, and negative brand reputation. Consumers feel misled by ads at times, and many report dissatisfaction when products do not live up to advertised promises. While effective advertising should be persuasive, it must also maintain honesty to avoid legal penalties and preserve long-term consumer relationships. Consumers may suffer financial loss by buying products that don't deliver promised benefits, and experience psychological harm such as feelings of inadequacy or disappointment. False advertising damages consumer trust in brands, making it difficult for companies to build long-term, meaningful relationships with their audience.

24. Diffusion of innovation is a theory that explains how, why, and at what rate new ideas and technology spread through a social system. Popularized by Everett Rogers in his 1962 book, the theory identifies five key elements: the innovation itself, communication channels, time, the social system, and the process of adoption, which is often categorized into adopter groups like innovators, early adopters, early majority, late majority, and laggards.

25. Explain any ten types of (Scientific, Descriptive, Narrative, Topical, Testimonial, Humorous, Reason Why, Endorsement, Questioning, Colloquial) Ad copy with suitable examples.

26. Advertising affects rural and urban consumers differently, with urban consumers being more influenced by factors like brand image and emotions, while rural consumers are more heavily influenced by factors like product utility and are often more impacted by traditional media like TV. In rural areas, local availability, cost, and recommendations from personal networks often hold more sway than ads, while urban consumers are more receptive to targeted ads based on personal interests.